FOREWORD

We, the students of today, face a barrage of problems unknown to our parents. Confronting us are the consequent problems of war resulting from past mistakes, an age of pollution, and an environment stricken with corruption, poverty, and hunger. This has occurred as an outgrowth of our predecessors' undertakings.

The future of the entire world is in the hands of the youth. We must learn from our parents' blunders the ways to best apply our knowledge by setting our aims high, in striving toward these worthy goals, and in doing so by uniting in a world-wide brotherhood.

Larry A. Miller, President of Student Council

OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON

"Your theme is especially appropriate at a time when we are making a just peace in Asia and working to ease the tensions in other areas of the world.

Americans have always been a peaceful people. As a Nation we have been willing to fight only to defend our own freedoms or to help others defend theirs. It is the responsibility of your generation, as well as mine, to see that this tradition is preserved."

Spiro T. Agnew

Vice President of the United States

I believe in the future of America because of my faith in the present generation of young people. In contrast to earlier generations characterized by silence and indifference, today's youth displays a healthy concern and interest in resolving our many problems.

I am confident they will rise to the challenge and help ensure a great future for us all.

John Brademas, Congressman of the 3rd District

Today's young people are not facing unique problems. They, through the mass communications of today, are aware of many more problems than any youth in history. It is good that they have ideas and commitments to better mankind, but they must use their inherited intelligence and their educational experiences to build on our present society. They must not feel remorse about the situation in which they find themselves, but accept it not only as a challenge, but as a responsibility that each generation has had and each succeeding generation will have. Young people: You do not find yourselves in a unique situation. Can you accept the challenge and responsibilities? Time will tell.

Robert Meyers
Principal of N.H.S.

We must adjust our learning, we must adapt our institutions and alter our egos to be more sensitive to the needs of others. And all this change must be accomplished amid order. It can all come about within the social, religious, educational, economic and governmental structures we now know.

These changes, these improvements, will come about when this generation offers not blind criticism of present situations, but constructive well-thought out plans for orderly change.

Thomas Kattau, President of M.C.C.T.A.

Our parents and educators say: What is the Youth doing to America?

The Youth reply: What have you done to America?

Why don't we all ask: What can WE do for America?

Create a stir, be a participant. The silent majority stinks simply because it is silent. Let no man be condemned for his words but instead let those be damned that have not spoken at all.

The problems of the world today are ignorance, greed, and just too little faith. Let these three things be eliminated and the downfall of prejudice, war, poverty, corruption, and pollution will be at hand. For education is the key to success, compassion and selflessness the keys to the human heart, and faith the key to the gates of heaven!

Milt Pressler, Medical Student, M.U.

In any age from that of Adam and Eve of the Old Testament to that of Adam Clayton Powell and Eve Curie of our own time, polarizations between good and bad can readily be identified. But for any one person our age is very much what we, ourselves, can make it. This is the challenge to the class of 1971 at Northridge High.

Earl Kreider, Acting President of Goshen College

All generations have had to face problems. The problems of today are different from the problems of the past. The methods of facing these challenges have changed very little.

1. Choose the goals you wish to attain.
2. Educate yourself to attain these goals.
3. Build a strong moral character and maintain this throughout your life.

Irvin Pratt, Athletic Coordinator

'71 faced differences. Students: Remember that the administration is more experienced. Teachers: Let me quote Emerson, "The secret of education lies in the respect of the pupil."

Jerry Troyer, Senior Class President

To learn is to live school experiences which form habits, values, and attitudes. The faces in this book will use what they have learned to remake our society, step by step and piece by piece, but not by one bold stroke of revolution. These faces are the hope of the years to come.

[illegible] All

you [illegible] need [illegible] you don't need a bed pan
you don't need a horoscope [illegible] a microscope to see the mess you're [illegible]
if you open [illegible] heart you [illegible]
what [illegible] mean you've been polluted so long but here's a way for you to get clean
By chanting the [illegible] the Lord and [illegible] be free
The Lord is awaiting on you [illegible] to awaken [illegible] see Chanting [illegible] names of the Lord and you'll be free
[illegible] Lord is waiting on you all to awaken [illegible]
you don't need a [illegible] you don't need no visas
[illegible] need to designate [illegible]
before you can see Jesus
if you open up your [illegible] you will see he's right there he always was and will be he'll relieve you of all your cares
By chanting the names of the [illegible]
you'll be [illegible]
[illegible] is awaiting on you all to awaken
and see Chanting the [illegible] the Lord and you'll be free
The [illegible] waiting on you all to awaken
and see
you [illegible] need no church house and [illegible]
don't [illegible] no Temple and you don't need no rosary beads or them books to read
to know [illegible] have fallen if you open up your heart then [illegible] will know [illegible] mean we've [illegible] kept down so long someone's thinking that we're all green [illegible] chanting [illegible] names of the Lord and
you'll be [illegible]
[illegible] Lord is awaiting on you all to awaken
and see
Chanting the names [illegible] the Lord and you'll
be free
[illegible] is waiting on you all to awaken
and see
